SUN BEAMS

By WALTER M. BARRETT

With the rapid approach of Christmas, more and more stores are putting on a holiday dress as large, new stocks of holiday merchandise are displayed for the particular shopper Loynd's Truckee Drug, Lloyd's and others this week prepared for the visit of Santa. With the fine array of seasonal gift selections, no excuse remains for shopping out of town. Prices here will be found to defy competition. At least look over the stock in the Truckee stores before you select gifts elsewhere. We know you will more than even be pleased to trade at home.

On another page of the Sierra Sun today will be found a letter from Senator Jerrold Seawell in which he solicits the advice of the voters of this district in the matter of old age pensions, increased taxation and other issues expected to be decided at the proposed special session of the legislature next month While Senator Seawell does not hide his personal feelings regarding the questions, he has offered to let the people he serves guide his vote. We are heartily in accord with this kind of representation and hope that the senator receives the support of the district in the important issues.

It is somewhat surprising that so few inquiries have been received by the chamber of commerce relative to incorporation. The issue is an important one and should be given more that passing attention. Decisions in the matter should not be based on idle rumor nor should personalities enter the picture. A recent report that the state highway department would discontinue maintaining the highway through Truckee in event of incorporation and that the city would be faced with the snow removal problem now handled by the state is answered by a letter on file with the chamber of commerce which says in part: "In event that the Town of Truckee should incorporate the funds it would receive as the city's portion of the gasoline tax would be insufficient to finance snow removal and maintenance, but should incorporation take place and the council is willing to apportion these funds for maintenance and snow removal on the State highway connection, this department would be willing to continue our past operations by the allocation of additional funds to carry on these operations." The letter was signed by G. T. McCoy, assistant state highway engineer. In other words, the state will continue to maintain the highway through Truckee either with or without incorporation. Many such questions can be readily answered if asked by interested residents or taxpayers,

Recently a Christmas tree chopper was fined $100 for cutting in the Tahoe National Forest without a permit and word comes from the forest service headquarters that the officers are alert in the campaign to stamp out illegal cutting. When this is accomplished and only designated trees are cut, a fine job will have been done.

Boundries For Proposed City Decided Here

Present Utility Boundries To Be Used As Base For Plan

PETITION IS ORDERED

Directors Of Chamber Talk Boundries At Local Session

Tentative boundries to be used in preparing the petition calling an election to determine whether or not Truckee hall be incorporated were drawn up at a meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce at the fire station here last week.

After discussing the matter at some length, it was finally decided to use the present boundries of the Truckee Public Utility District as a base form which to operate. This would include an area two miles east and west extending from a point east of the Southern Pacific company's property at the stock yards to the Tahoe Wye; and would be approximately a mile and a half north and south from the Placer County line to the forest service headquarters on the north.

President C. B. White was authorized to have Ward Sheldon, Nevada City attorney, draw up the necessary petition to be circulated locally.

The directors announced that no additional inquiries relative to the proposal have been received for the suggested program of explanation of the various functions, duties and oher matters pertaining to incorporation.

Motorists Warned To Guard Against Poison Gases During Winter

Motorists this week were warned to have their cars carefully checked to be certain that carbon monoxide gas is not seeping into their vehicles With the advent of colder weather the dangers of carbon monoxide gas poinsoning increase, according to E Raymond Cato, chief of the California highway patrol.

He called attention to the fact that merely opening the window in a car was not a guarantee of protection against gases entering a vehicle.

Tests, participated in by the patrol, reveal that the deadly gases are present when an automobile engine may hav leaky gaskets, defects in the exhaust system ,broken mufflers small scarcely noticable holes in any of these parts.

SLOW UP OR BE A "STATISTIC"

In a traffic case session recently Municipal Judge Theresa Meikle of San Francisco compressed a warning to potential holiday highway accident victims in crisp sentence: "Slow up before you become a statistic." The graphic admonition of that woman jurist is most timely now. The holiday month of December enormously increases motor and pedestrian traffic. Tens of thousands drive home for reunions. Major events such as the Tournament of Roses and the Rose Bowl game add cars by the thousand to normal cross-country and city traffic. In December the daylight hours for driving shrink as winter nights lenghten, and pavements become slippery with rains, snow, fogs and frosts. And all such hazards, as Judge Meikle warns, are intensified by the holiday time urge to hurry. The tendency on trips is to hurry—to drive fast so that visiting periods may be longer and travel time less. The tendency is to hurry through crowded streets while shopping—taking chances by jaywalking, by walking against red lights, by being impatient of all delays.

Yet thousands who were in a hurry a year ago, today are "statistics"—names compiled with data about "how it happened," for accident statisticians and experts to study. The holiday season is crowded with activities, and passes all too quickly. But slow up! Take your time on the road, in the street, on the crosswalk. When Chirstmas and New Year festivities are at their height a few weeks hence, be one of the gay celebrants—not a late accident "statistic."

HE SHOPPED AT HOME

In a real life scenario that could have happened only in America, James Armenaki, New York hotel waiter, last week gave a party big enough to attract national attention and lavish enough to prove that a workingman cannot only look at a king, but can also throw a party like one.

The occasion was the marriage of Mr. Armenaki's daughter. A firm believer in spending at home, Mr. Armenaki rented a sumptuous five-room suite in the hotel where he works—one of New York's swankiest. Rounding out the party with some 50 guests—including the owner of the hotel and his wife—and an orchestra, this waiter staged a celebration worth writing home about.

To his guests, he said: "For five years I have worked here, and the hotel has been paying my salary. I figure that I should give the hotel my business when I could."

There's something, incidentally, in those remarks well worth remembering, particularly at this season of the year. Christmas shoppers will see the point. It is "Shop at home."

FIND THE TAX-FREE MAN

"A nation-wide poll indicates that 25 per cent of the people believe they do not pay taxes," says the Kansas City Times. "Presumably these are people who never ride in motor cars, who do not live in houses or apartments, who do not buy food or clothing or do any of the other things that go to make up present day living.

"That 25 per cent is pretty mythical. It's the supreme example of self-delusion. It sees no tax bills and concludes it does not pay. It's pretty much like saying that because you don't see the heat or the cold neither exist."

What this all adds up to is simply that the great bulk of taxes collected in this country are hidden taxes. Nobody sends you a quarterly ctatement or an annual statement to show the total you pay. Instead you pay taxes hourly, daily or weekly ,in small pieces—when you make a purchase or you pay your rent or go to a show. And, in a year's time, those little pieces total more than 20 per cent of your entire income. In other words, your earnings for one month out of five go to the tax collector instead of into your pocket.

A search for the man who doesn't pay taxes would be about as fruitless as Diogenes' classic search for the completely honest man.

He would be someone who doesn't eat, doesn't wear clothes, doesn't live anywhere, doesn't buy newspapers or magazines—a man, in brief, who doesn't do anything at all and doesn't need anything to do it with. All the rest of us are taxed—and plenty.

SENATOR SEAWELL CALLS UPON VOTERS TO EXPRESS WISHES IN COMING SESSION

State Senator Jerrold Seawell of Roseville, in a letter to the Sierra Sun, is acquainting the electorate of this district with his feelings relative to increased taxation to carry out proposals for the special session of the legislature and seeks the advice of the voters of this district on their wishes. The letter follows:

Dear Editor:

The Governor of California has indicated that he will call a special session of the legislature some time during the month of January. It is generally understood that the three major problems that will confront this special session will be unemployment relief, a reduction in the old age pension age limitation, and a new plan of raising additional taxes to balance the state budget and to finance additional costs proposed by the state old age pension provision.

I have been receiving letters from various people throughout my district, who would come under the old age pension plan should the age limitation be reduced from age 65 to age 60 or less, advocating that I support the program.

Irrespective of what my personal feelings in the matter may be I have always tried to follow the policy of complying with the wishes of the majority of the people of my district regarding legislative matters, and I am asking you for the use of your valuable paper to convey to the people of this district the situation as I see it, and earnestly solicit their advice and counsel regarding the policy I should adopt and the proceure I should follow in representing them during the contemplated special session.

First, let us analyze the old age pension system as it now exists and the result that will occur should the proposed changes be enacted into law.

In 1929, I was one of the authors, as a member of the State Assembly, of the bill that created the first old age pension act, this bill providing for an old age pension not in excess of $20.00, half the cost to be borne by the state and half by the county. That law had a residence eligibility requirement of 20 years residence in California before a person 70 years or over would be eligible for a pension. At a later session this age requirement was reduced to 15 years residence eligibility.

In 1935, the Federal Congress passed an act providing for feedral assistance to states paying pensions in th eamout of $30.00 or more to people who had reached the age of 65 or over. This also carried a provision that before the federal government would contribute federal funds to the state, the state must also reduce the eligibility requirement to read any person who had rsided in the state five out of the last nine years would be eligible for a pension. This made a drastic reduction in eligibility requirements in California—in fact it actually reduced these requirements from 15 years to five years.

The California legislature complied with the federal requirements and set up a maximum $35.00 pension, $15.00 to be contributed by the federal government ,$10.00 by the state and $10.00 by the county, making a total of $35.00 in all. This is the present old age pension structure in California.

The State Department of Social Welfare in their bulletin states that the people of California today are paying approximately $29,000,000 annually for old age pensions, the federal government contributing approximately $24,000,000 in addition to this amount. The State Department bulletin also records theer are in California today over 500,000 persons 65 years of age and over, of which only 132,000 are receiving old age pensions.

Assuming these figures to be correct, and if all the people of this state 65 years and over were to receive pensions under the present structure, the pension costs of the people of California would jump from $29,000,000 to approximately $112,000,000 annually. Now let us add to this figure all those people who would become eligible should the age limitation be reduced to 60, or even worse if reduced to 50. Following the same ratio that now exists, the pension cost could reach an astounding figure of over $300,000,000 and to make matters worse the federal act provides that the federal government does not contribute to any pensions granted to people under 65 years of age, which would cause the entire burden to fall directly back upon the California taxpayers. Assuming this to be true, which I believe it is, then it is not hard to understand why I have continually advocated that pension plans shall

LAKE TAHOE NEWS
"NEWS & VIEWS ABOUT THE LAKE"

Tahoe . . . . Ramblings . .
(by SWANEE)

Tahoe's lake level on Monday stood at 6224.65 with 230 CSF of water leaving the gates. The coldest temeprature of the week was on the 29th when the thermometer hit 21 degrees.

Miss Patricia Meeker of Reno was the weekend guest of Miss Kathleen Starratt Anderson at the latter's home. The duo enjoyed some skiing atop Mt. Rose and some excellent ice skating on the pond while here.

Constable Harry Johanson is spending several weeks in Sacramento wher he is attending a training school for officers.

Patrolman F. E. Walker and Bud have moved into town for the winter and will occupy a cottage on the Circle.

Duck hunters have experienced only nominal luck during the past several weeks in local areas as the season closed Tuesday. Quail season remains open until December 31, the same date also marking the close of bear hunting season. Many have reported seeing bears in the Tahoe area but so far as we know only Miss Alice Soll, 17, of Tahoe Pines hs brought one home. She shot it in a tree on the Ehrman property, following up the feat by killing a large coyote. It will be remembered Alice earlier in the summer brought down a four point buck while riding her bike long the lake shore.

On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. William LaMarr, Captain Willard, Tejas Edwards and Charlie Swanson motored down to Weimar to enjoy a fling at quail hunting, the birds being more plentiful in that region.

A group of 25 or more revelled in the first ice skating party of the season on the pond of upper Bliss creek. Bon fires were lighted to keep the skaters warm and a grand time was had by all. If the present weather continues it will not be long until caretakers will be putting up ice for next summer, each night adding to the thickness. Following the skating some of the younger group repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Henry in town wheer hot chocolate and sandwiches were served and games and dancing enjoyed until a late hour. Those enjoying the hospitality of the Henrys were Jay Stark, James Worden, Bill Bechdolt, Dick Carnell, Stewart Pyle, Helen Worden, Alice and Mary Jane Soll and Patsy Henry.

TWO BOY NABBED AFTER HOME AT TAHOE IS LOOTED

TAHOE CITY, Dec. 7.— On Sunday, Patrolman F. E. Walker took two youthful prisoners to Auburn where they were turned over to Sheriff Elmer Gumm for safekeeping. The youths were arrested by Walker for breaking into a house of Johnny Rayburn at Brockway and stealing clothing and other articles. The boys told Walker that they left Oakland last Thursday night and went to Vallejo. There they were given a ride and paid the driver a dollar each to bring them to Kings Beach. On Friday they are alleged to have broken into Rayburn's home and taking the loot.

They are also suspected of breaking into another summer home but took nothing from it.

Following discovery of the house breaking a teletype account was broadcast by Officer Walker, the boys, aged 16 and 17 were picked up and at first denied their guilt, but are said to have confessed after Walker said fingerprint shad been taken. They led the officer to the hidden loot, all of which was recovered. Caretaker Riggs of the Rayburn property identified the property.

Investigation, Walker said, revealed that one of the boys was a ward of the Oakland juvenile court and had been guilty of automobile theft.

While investigation of the Rayburn robbery has not been completed, Walker said it is believed the boys lied and instead of being given a ride, stole a car in Oakland and rove it to Tahoe where they conceale it in the woods somewhere.

NEW ICE RINK FOR BEING CONSTRUCTED AT TRUCKEE DAM

TAHOE CITY, Dec. 7.— A new skating pond is being constructed near the Tahoe dam where the Truckee river leaves the lake, with a bulldozer at work smoothing the plot of ground which measures approximately 100 square feet.

According to President Floyd Carsell of the ski club, the pond will be ready in about a week with the club members being admitted free and outsiders only to pay a small charge. He hops in this manner to materially swell the membership of the club.

RESCUE BY GAME WARDEN REVEALED IN BELATED STORY

TAHOE CITY, Dec. 7.—A modest man in Game Warden Bill LaMarr. So modest in fact that it was only after adroit questioning that we were able to learn of the near drowning of a hunter in Weber lake several weeks ago. Although it was LaMarr's police whistle which first summoned help for the man, a resident of Alleghany, name unknown, LaMarr gives all credit for the rescue to Messrs Scott and Johnson who went to the man's aid with a boat after his own had overturned in midlake. The warden sighted him and being unable to reach the man wihou a boat, shrilled repeatedly on his whistle, bringing rescuers from their nearby homes. The accident victim after being brought safely to shore, declared he could not have hld out for more than five minutes longer in the icy water. His gun and other equipment went to the bottom.

In fact they made an ardous trip clear to Seattle to get the little fellow who is to remain as a member of the family indefinitey. He is Edward Kenneth Romine, son of family friends.

LUMBERING WAS ONE OF INDUSTRIES IN EARLY LOCAL TIMES

The following is another portion of Edward's Tourist's Guide and Directory of the Truckee Basin by Editor W. F. Edwards of the Truckee Republican. Published in 1883.

HISTORY OF TRUCKEE ....

Up to 1868, there had been an industry slowly but surely growing up, that would, eventually assume proportions that no one dreamed of. From a little saw mill run by an improvised watsr wheel, and located at the foot of Donner Lake, by a man named McPherson, in 1864, started the great lumbering industry of Trucksee. Lumber and timber were in demand. For hundreds of miles in each direction levies were constantly being made upon her mills for matsrials with which to build. Salt Lake City demanded heavy tribute and millions of feet of Truckee lumber were consumed in building Morman and Gentile edifices. The mines of Utah and Nevada looked to Truckee for their supply of timber and her charcoal pits weer drained to supply fuel for smelters. All this brought prosperity and good times.

The railroad company needed timber, the many and disasterous fires increased the demand, and in 1866 Joseph Gray and George Shaffer erected a saw mill on the opposite side of the Truckee river from which the town now stands, and these gentlemen may legitimately claim to be the pioneers in the industry which today lines the banks of the Truckee from its source to Pyramid Lake. Located in Truckee is the establishment known all along the Pacific Coast and back beyond Salt Lake City, as the Truckee Lumber Company.

WORK RUSHED ON NEW SKI HILL FOR LAKE TAHOE CLUB

TAHOE CITY, Dec. 7.— Tahoe Ski Club members have given real effort during the past week to whip the new ski hill into shape before winter sets in. A tractor, owned and operated by Bob Watson has been smoothing away the rough spots and dragging obstructions from the runway. The small house which nestled at the foot of the hill has been moved away and work of lengthening and pepping up the power of the upski is progressing.

The basket social held last Saturday night was only a mild success there being only five basket suppers brought for the banquet. Most of the patrons failed to eat, but all had a jolly time as the old fashion and modern dances occupied the time, Approximately 80 attended.

TAHOE SCHOOL NOTES

Tahoe Lake school will observe the coming Christmas holiday with a special program to be held in the school auditorium on December 21 weathsr permitting, at 7:30 p. m. The highspot of the performance will be a Christmas play entitled Christmas on the Grassville Limited, to be presented by members of the elementary grades. The story depicts a group of persons going home for Christmas on a train which becomes stalled in a blizzard. A large tree will grace a corner of the hall where present plans call for the distribution of the usual donations of candy and nuts to the youngsters. Stunts and drills and singing will comprise much of the entertainment. The orchestra, led by Otto Fox, will play.

Another semester has been finished by the grades of the Tahoe branch of the Placer county high school, according to the principal, Mrs. Bliss Hinkle. The grammar grades will hold examinations next eek, concluding the semester.

Mrs. Myrtle Gallinger and Mrs. Tejas Edwards motored to Auburn Saturday where the former attended a regular meeting of the board of education.

Today Mrs. Gallinger planned to attend a teachers' meeting in Auburn where Mrs. Mable Gifford of the state department of education will speak.

Miss Mary Pronzato, former local teacher in now teaching in Alturas.

Miss Lois Reeves, former Tahoe pupil now attending school in Auburn, was a weekend visitor where she was a guest of Miss Scheureman, primary teacher.

Jack Wolf of Tahoe is now attending school in Sacramento.

Professor Henry Hinkle and his daughters, Marilyn and Sue, enjoyed a weekend at the family home here.

Miss Lillian Vernon accompanied the Hinkles from Berkeley.

License Fees May Be Advanced Next Year

Unless the state board of equalization can absorb the estimated one dollar additional cost of issuing the plates to vehicles subject to its regulation, department of motor vehicles will be forced to charge operators $4 instead of $3 when registrations are made in 1940.

This was announced by Howard R. Philbrick, director of motor vehicles, following an opinion from the attorney general upholding the contention that the department was entitled to receive the extra fee since the law specifies operators shall pay a "pro rata cost of edsigning, manufacturing and distribution of the license plates.

SEAWELL APPEALS TO LOCAL VOTERS ON RELIEF PLAN SLATED FOR SESSION

be national in scope and uniform in application.

With the eligibility requirements under the federal act, California will then become the mecca of the aged people of America, for the State Department of Social Welfare shows California to rank No. 1 in old age pension payments and unemployment relief payments, and in payments to the needy blind. Comparing California's old age pension plan today in which the average payment amounts to $32.45, with that of Illinois of $19.23, with that of New York of $23.57, with that of Texas of $14.16, and with that of Michigan at $16.44, which are states comparable in size and in wealth to California it is reasonable that the old people of other states would migrate westward to improve their social conditions, which again substantiates should a national uniform pension act be in effect the desire to leave their home states would be eliminated.

The same condition prevails when we look at the unemployment relief problem of California's S. R. A., to which the state today is expending approximately $4,000,000 monthly in addition to those projects allocated to California nder the W. P. A.

The federal government during the past 12 months, and even before, has consistently reduced its relief contributions to this state, which has forced the burden of caring for those people back as a direct charge upon the state. All indications point that the legislature will be requested to raise between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 more for additional relief in California. The controversy on this subject at the moment is the manner in which relief is being administered. Should it be administered by the state or should the policy be to return it to the counties and allow the county agencies to administer relief. A great many of the legislators feel that relief could be better administered by the counties as they are in closer touch with local situations than is the state, and that it would have a tendency to take politics out of relief and would ultimately result in a great saving over what it is now costing to carry out this program.

With the state facing an approximate deficit of $75,000,000, according to the State Controller, which might reach a peak of $110,000,000 under our present system of operating, the pension and relief proposals strike directly and seriously at the taxpayers' pocketbooks and will become a major issue at the special session.

Should a $50.00 or $60.00 pension be allowed without federal aid, and should the legislature vote the requested amounts for relief without federal aid, plus the present state deficit, we may be called upon in the very near future to raise better than a quarter of a million dollars in new taxes to meet our current expenditures and social obligations.

In directing this communication to the people of this district, I have tried to present the facts as they appear to me that the people may have an opportunity to study the same over and to advise me their desires regarding the special session program. I have always believed, and still do, in adequate old age pensions based upon the ability of the state to pay the same, and that the burden should be a national burden borne by all the people. By the same philosophy I have approaached the relief problem and advocate a national policy to this effect. By such a policy California can live within her income and not strangle her people with a tax burden that will eventually wipe out our state credit and eprsonal incomes.

I would apprecate the people of this district answering the following points:

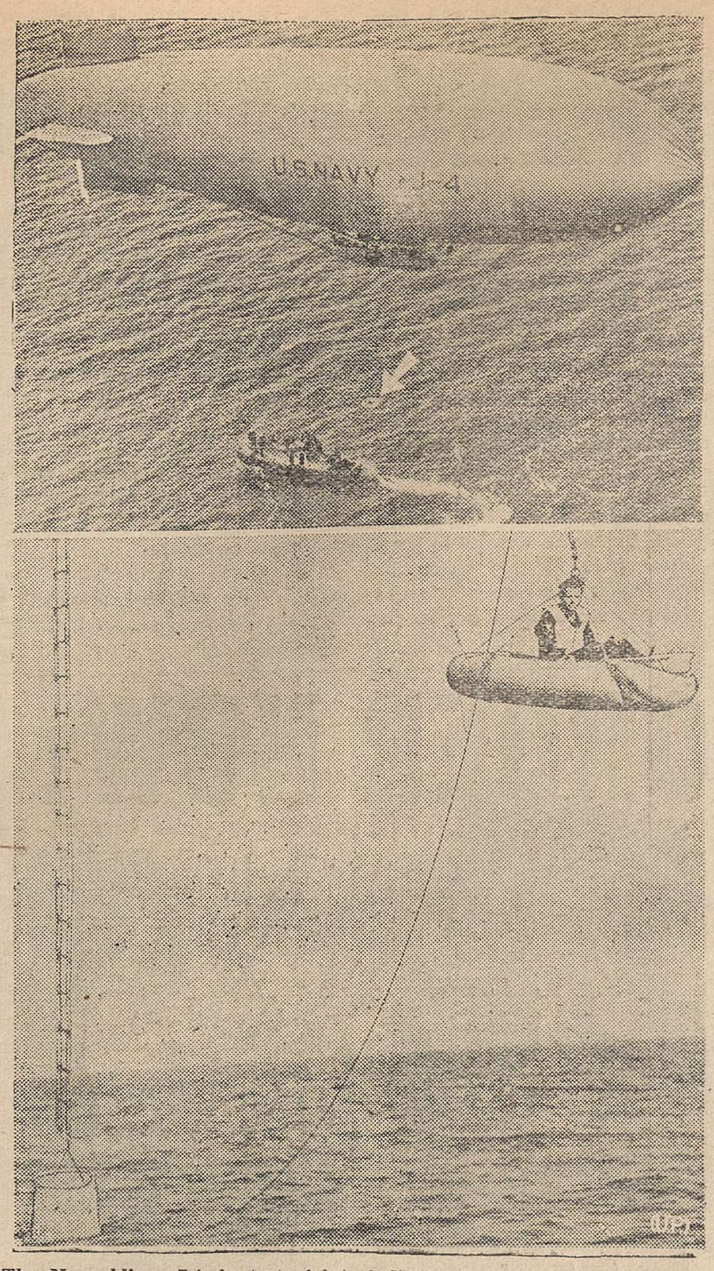
Do you want the age eligibility requirements reduced in accordance with the proposals submitted by the Governor and Lieutenant Governor?

Do you want the relief problem administered by a state agency or would you prefer to have it administered by your local county agency?

Do you want the legislature to approve the "production for use program" as proposed by the Governor?

The answers to these three points will greatly reflect upon the position I will have to take in approaching governmental economy and the enactment of new revenue laws to obtain additional income to meet these obligations by invoking additional taxes upon the people of California. I do not expect the people of this district to advise me as to the solution of the problem, but would appreciate a definition of policy as it relates to higher pensions and additional taxes.

BLIMP TESTS SEA RESCUE



The Navy blimp J-4, in tests jointly conducted off the New Jersey coast by Naval airmen and the U. S. coast guard, proved that lighter- than air craft could affect rescues at sea as shown here. Rubber life raft indicated by the arrow in top photo is hoisted 100 feet to blimp. Boatswain's Mate Wesley Calhoun demonstrates further in closeup in the lower view. Blimp is anchored by bucket at left.

The Man At The Keyhole

(BY OPERATIVE WB)

Skeptical citizens who have been inclined to scoff at reports of the spread of Communism in California—lighly dubbing such information as "red baiting", or political gesturing—may be forced to change their tune ere long. Official returns for example, on recent Sa nFrancisco election reveal that Archie Brown Communist candidate for supervisor, polled 31,000 votes. And that, in a city the size of San Francisco, is quite a hatful of votes—to many, in fact, to laugh off!

It is my desire to serve the people of this district inthe manner that they deem is for the best interest of all concerned, and I can only do this by soliciting their advice and counsel.

Sincerely yours
State Senator
Seventh Senatorial District.

Don't expect the legislature to take too kindly to Governor Olson's idea of a state pension of $50 or $60 per month for everybody over 60. Most of the lawmakers recognize that such a pension would start a stampede of destitute to California!

Politics, according to cynics, is a disillusioning business of fairweaher friends and colossal ingratitude. But there's at least one politician right now who doesn's believe it. Since his indictment by the Los Angeles Grand Jury, Fred E. Stewart, Oakland member of the State Board of Equalization, has learned that he has a host of friends who believe him and are willing to fight for him. The attorneys who will defend him are two of his closest friends and associates—Tom Carlson of Richmond and Senator Bob Kenny of Los Angeles. And he has received more wires and letters offering support and encouragement, than most men get when they announce themselves as public candidates for high office. Fred has been a friend in need to thousands and a lot of them still remember it.
